Dear Friends of Olbrich Botanical Gardens,

2009 was a wonderful year for the Gardens and for Olbrich Botanical Society. More than 250,000 people visited the Gardens, and, in recognition of its 30-year partnership with the City of Madison Parks Division, the Olbrich Botanical Society was awarded the 2009 Outstanding Philanthropic Organization by the Madison Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals. Nominated for this prestigious award by Parks Superintendent Kevin Briski, the Society was honored to be publicly recognized for its work with the Parks Division.

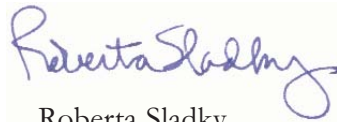

At the end of 2009, the Olbrich Botanical Society had 5,426 member households. We are pleased to report that this number grows steadily each year as more and more people choose to support the Gardens and enjoy the benefits of being an Olbrich member.

Our fundraising programs remained strong during a year when the economy struggled. Again, our loyal supporters, as well as a growing number of new contributors, value the Gardens for their beauty and the educational programs we offer for all ages.

Thank you for your continued support, and enjoy this annual report!

Dan Matson
President
Olbrich Botanical Society

Roberta Sladky

2009 Program Highlights

The Outdoor Gardens

Several new examples of sustainable gardens and landscapes were created in 2009 including

- A Gravel Garden, a low maintenance technique that originated in Europe. Once established, there is only minimal annual maintenance other than managing leaves or other organic residue dropped from the shrubs and perennials.
- A Prairie Dropseed Meadow, which replaced established turf in the Perennial Garden with Sporobolus heterolepis, a short native grass. The prairie dropseed was underplanted with early spring ephemerals to provide seasonal interest. This alternative to the traditional lawn is mowed just once each year (so much we use much less fuel), gets no supplemental fertilizing, and uses minimal additional water once the plants are established.
- A boardwalk through the Rain Garden located in the Rose Garden was completed, providing a place for visitors to immerse themselves in the rain garden concept through direct experience.
- A new water treatment system that eliminates the use of chlorine was installed in the Rose Garden fountain system.
- “Farmscaping” was trialed by Bolz Conservatory staff around the production greenhouses to increase the numbers of naturally occurring beneficial insects in the greenhouse environment.

The Bolz Conservatory & Greenhouses

- The “Yesterday’s Plants, Today’s Energy” Conservatory exhibit highlighted the role plants have played in energy production. Visitors learned about the prehistoric plants that formed the fossil fuels used today, and considered how today’s plants might become tomorrow’s energy.
- In our continuing effort to reduce, reuse and recycle, Olbrich successfully cultivated its annual pansy crop in eco-friendly compostable fiber pots. All used plastic plant pots are recycled through the City of Madison’s rigid plastic recycling program, and we continue to experiment with fiber and rice hull pots.
- Olbrich won seven awards for its orchids at the 2009 Orchid Quest Convention in January. The Madison Orchid Growers Guild awarded Olbrich two Best of Class, three First Places, one Special Award, and one Third Place.
- After nearly 10 years of dedicated service to Olbrich Botanical Gardens, Assistant Conservatory Curator David Dewsnap retired. Many thanks to David as he begins the next chapter of his life, which we are certain will include plants!
- Jennifer Recoy started as Olbrich’s new Assistant Conservatory Curator in June, bringing a strong background in horticulture and plant propagation.

One of Olbrich’s rain gardens is located in the Rose Garden and sports a boardwalk made from recycled plastic bags. Visitors can literally walk through the garden to see how a rain garden is constructed and experience a garden specifically designed to catch rainwater.

Inch by inch, row by row, students learn to plant and grow! Olbrich's Children's Vegetable Garden Program provides hands-on gardening experience and education for children in collaboration with the Madison School and Community Recreation Department.

Education

- Olbrich Botanical Gardens partnered with Allen Centennial Gardens to present the Midwest Gardening Symposium, "Incredible, Edible Gardens." The program featured five well-known speakers who spoke on adding edible plants to home landscapes.
- 12,243 individuals registered for classes and/or tours through the Garden's Education Department.
- Olbrich welcomed Jane Nicholson as our new Director of Education. Ms. Nicholson has diverse and solid experience in the field of education and was most recently School and Teacher Programs Manager at the Milwaukee Art Museum.
- Olbrich's popular spring lecture series focused on sustainability in 2009 featuring programs on Easy Home Composting, Natural Lawn Care, Rainwater Harvesting, Low Maintenance the Natural Way, and Organic Practices for the Home Gardener.
- A new exhibit in Olbrich's lobby addresses the specific actions and programs Olbrich regularly employs to make our Gardens sustainable. From the outdoor gardens, to the Conservatory and greenhouses, to our education programs and our administrative offices, the exhibit details our "sustainable by design" practices in the hopes that visitors will apply the same principles in their lives.
- Guided Garden Strolls were successfully piloted on Sunday afternoons June through September. Volunteers offered free interpreted strolls for visitors on a drop-in basis.

Volunteers

- 622 individual volunteers and 9 volunteer groups contributed 25,585 hours to Olbrich Botanical Gardens in 2009. Volunteers assisted in every department, exponentially improving the staff's ability to create a memorable garden experience for each visitor.
- Olbrich volunteers continue to demonstrate their commitment to the Gardens by returning again and again to help us out! Our very stable volunteer program consistently has an 80% retention rate, giving the staff reliable and experienced assistance with the work that needs to get done!
- Of our 622 volunteers, 300 of them worked 25 hours or more during the year, earning them an invitation to the annual Volunteer Appreciation Lunch in February. Nearly 200 of those invited were able to attend!
- Year-round Conservatory Greeters were introduced as a way to provide an entry point for volunteers who would like to serve as Conservatory Docents.
- New volunteer positions were added in marketing, membership, and events to fulfill requests for information, perform data entry, and manage Olbrich's winter, summer, and holiday concert series.
- Olbrich's Volunteer program is highly regarded and consistently referenced by other organizations. In October, Volunteer Manager Marty Petillo presented a plenary session of the biennial American Public Garden Association's Volunteer Interaction Conference.

2009 Program Highlights

Growing Gifts Shop

- After nearly 20 years of dedicated service, Olbrich's Gift Shop Manager Shirley Homburg retired. In a special resolution, the OBS Board thanked Shirley for developing a top-quality store with well-trained and loyal staff and volunteers that has contributed hundreds of thousands of dollars to support the Gardens.
- Cindy Sullivan joined Olbrich in July as our new Gift Shop Manager bringing with her excellent experience in retail and online sales from positions at guild.com and American Girl.
- A member of Dane Buy Local, the gift shop continued to increase its focus on garden-related items that are unique to Olbrich and locally made and/or fair trade.

The Schumacher Horticultural Library

- Olbrich's Library provided valuable reference work experience for a student from the UW School of Library and Information Services during the spring semester.
- The Library hosted a Garden Book Festival as part of the October Wisconsin Book Festival, and a Garden Book Exchange for volunteers who swapped books and donated materials for the Spring Plant Sale.
- Since so much reference material is now available online, a new computer was added in the Library. Volunteers use it to access our electronic catalog to do information searches and to check out books. The computer is also available for public use.

Administration

- Regular attendance at the Gardens in 2009 once again topped 250,000. Visitors counted daily between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. totaled 246,197. Visitors arriving before 9 a.m. and after 4 p.m. are not counted but number in the thousands for the year.
- Throughout the year, there were 1,610 uses of Olbrich's meeting spaces, including 488 private rentals. Olbrich remains a favorite place for the community to meet, learn, celebrate, remember, and even vote.
- In February the OBS Board of Directors passed a resolution in support of the Madison Parks Division's recommended Olbrich Park Land Use Plan. The Plan provides for expansion of Olbrich Gardens into the area adjacent to the Thai Pavilion and Garden and for garden nursery and maintenance facilities north of the railroad tracks on the Garver property. The Madison Parks Commission subsequently approved the plan in March. The City of Madison continues negotiating with Common Wealth Development to develop a contract to redevelop the Garver Feed Mill into an arts center.

Olbrich's Blooming Butterflies continued to educate visitors of all ages about butterflies, plants, and people. More than 26,000 people attended the event in 2009.

Volunteers are important to all departments at Olbrich Botanical Gardens. Outdoor gardening crews get to “play in the dirt” from April to October.

Development & Marketing

- In another economically challenging year, support for Olbrich remained steady. Fundraising brought in $856,041 for operations against a goal of $857,615. In addition, $17,575 was donated for special projects.
- OBS received a number of generous bequests totalling $215,730 for the year, including gifts from the estates of Jane Graff, Robert Hougas, and Rose Kinunen. These gifts were immediately transferred to the Olbrich Forever Endowment in the Olbrich Botanical Society Foundation.
- Olbrich’s Membership Program remained very strong throughout the year, ending with 5,426 member households. The program has been consistently growing over the past four years and has a retention rate of approximately 75%.
- Melissa Keegan joined Olbrich as our Special Events Coordinator bringing great experience from her previous position as Special Events and Rental Coordinator at the John Michael Kohler Arts Center.
- The Marketing staff used a very small budget to leverage thousands of dollars in donated advertising to promote the Gardens to the “everyday visitor,” primarily through on-line advertising. This new approach reminded visitors that the Gardens are open year-round.
- Attendance at Olbrich’s Blooming Butterflies was at a 4-year high of 27,395. We continued our partnership with the Madison Public Library offering a free ticket to Butterflies for children who read 10 books or 10 hours.

OBS Foundation

- The OBS Foundation made an annual distribution of $160,804 to the Olbrich Botanical Society to support Gardens operations.
- The Olbrich Botanical Society transferred $215,730 in bequests to the Foundation’s Olbrich Forever endowment fund during the year.
